Website FAQ – Leak Adjustment Policy through ServLine

What is a leak adjustment?

A leak adjustment is a limited bill credit for unusually high water usage caused by a qualifying, unexpected plumbing leak.

How often can I receive a leak adjustment?

Residential customers may receive one leak adjustment per 12-month period. Additional leaks during the same 12 months are not eligible.

Is there a maximum adjustment amount?

Yes. Residential leak adjustments are capped at $2,500 per 12-month period. Charges above this amount are the customer's responsibility.

Do I have to be enrolled in ServLine?

Yes. ServLine participation is required for residential customers. Customers who opt out of ServLine are not eligible for leak adjustments.

What portion of my bill do I still have to pay?

Customers are responsible for paying their 12-month average water bill. The adjustment only applies to charges above that average, up to the $2,500 limit.

Is there a minimum leak amount to qualify?

Yes. The leak must generate at least $100 more than your 12-month average bill.

What documentation is required?

You must provide proof that the leak has been repaired, such as a plumber's invoice or a receipt for repair materials.

How long do I have to request an adjustment?

Requests must be submitted within 90 days of the billing date.

What types of leaks are not eligible?

Adjustments are not available for:

- Irrigation or sprinkler systems
 - Lawn watering
 - Swimming pools or pool leaks
 - Negligence (e.g., leaving water running)
 - Abandoned properties or poor maintenance
 - Leaks unrelated to the primary residence

What about commercial or industrial customers?

Commercial, industrial, and irrigation customers may receive one one-time adjustment equal to 50% of excess water charges, if reported within 15 days of the bill date.
